GLASMAN'S EASTERN TRIP

"Bill" Expected to Turn Up at the National Capital to Do Some Boosting for Himself.

William Glasman, editor and acting publisher of the Ogden News, is in the east. He left Ogden several days ago, but for some reason his departure has not been chronicled in the daily press. It is reported that Mr. Glasman went east for the purpose of attending the session of the American Newspaper Publishers' association in New York and incidentally to consult with the Utah senators in Washington concerning the sending in of his appointment by the president to the senate.

Glasman took office on October 1 of last year and since that time there has been some diligent work done by those who are opposed to the former mayor leaving the situation, and his report has been submitted to the officials at Washington. In a statement printed in one of his papers a short time ago, he announced that he would ascertain who was opposing him and would "certainly" remove his friends. An effort to secure from the inspector and others this information met with failure and it is claimed that Mr. Glasman began to get somewhat worried over his recess appointment, hence the trip east.

Charcoal Stops Gas On Your Stomach

Wonderful Absorbing Power of Charcoal When Taken in the Form of Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges.

Trial Package Sent Free.

Charcoal, pure, simple charcoal, absorbs 100 times its own volume of gas. It does the gas go? It is just absorbed by the charcoal—the gas disappears and there is left a pure, fresh, and atmosphere, free from all impurities and germs.

That's what happens in your stomach when you take one or two of Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges, the most powerful purifiers science has yet discovered.

You belch gas in company, sometimes, by accident, greatly to your own humiliation. That because there is a great amount of gas being formed in your stomach by fermenting food. Your stomach is not digesting your food properly. Gas is inevitable. Whenever this happens, fast take one or two of Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges right after eating, and you will be surprised how quickly they will act. No more belchings; no more sour risings. Eat all you want and what you want, and then there is any gas going to be formed, one of these wonderful little absorbents, a Stuart Charcoal Lozenge, will take care of all the gas.

And it will do more than that. Every particle of impurity in your stomach and intestines is going to be carried away by the charcoal. No one seems to know why it does this, but it does, and does it wonderfully. You notice that if you had just finished a term in Deer Lodge penitentiary for stealing mutton and after being released had gone to Burke, where Roosevelt's daughter had told him to come to Wallace and take charge of this coal business, Adams would destroy the Cour d'Alenes. Ryan will be committed to the asylum, Adams says he did not know the man.

This morning was taken up mainly with reading the testimony given by Coroner Keys at the preliminary hearing, the Western Federation of Miners, but instances had arisen where he had found them to commit crimes. He denied that he had agreed with Governor Gooding and Warren Whitney to subject Adams to five or six days' solitary confinement and that at the end of that time he would be ready "to cough it all up." He denied that he administered what is known as the "third degree" to Adams. The third degree means subjection of a prisoner to solitary confinement and then asking and leading him on to confess. He denied that he had made any arrangements by which Adams and Orchard should be locked up together and that he called from time to time to see what progress Orchard was making towards getting Adams to corroborate the confession.

He admitted that he went to see Adams February 26 with a view to getting him to confess. He admitted that he took him into the inner room of the warden's office and gave him a cigar and told him to confess. He admitted that he told Adams his own past history. He admitted a lengthy dissertation to Adams on his duty toward society, his wife, family and daughter. McFarland admitted telling him that he was the man who "busted up" the Molly Maguires in Pennsylvania, and admitted repeatedly that he told Adams that the "state always acted fair with those that acted fair by it." The witness admitted that a nice lunchman had been served to both and that in the afternoon he had got "the patient mellow and ripe" and had made him believe that he would be better to tell all. He referred to the Western Federation as criminals and said that Adams seemed to agree with him. He denied that threats had been used or inducements held out to Adams, and described the whole transaction as a "business proposition."

The examination was conducted in a theatrical manner by E. F. Richards, who said that the witness was crowded to the doors.

Thiele's Story.

C. S. Thiele confirmed the testimony of McFarland with regard to times, places and dates. Thiele told that shortly after Adams' arrest he told him that all he had to do was to go to Boise and do what he pleased with him and "you will be all right," and denied that he told Mrs. Adams that they did not shackle Steve because they were in the evening and he was at them and wanted to make a good impression. He admitted that there were several statements of Steve Adams and all related to different matters and all were got at the same time.

During the taking of the testimony the jury were called out of court until the relevancy of the confession can be established, but the circumstances under which it was given will be laid before them by the defense.

PROVO SENDS THANKS.

Provo, Feb. 20.—The Provo Commercial club at the evening session of the following telegram which was sent to Senator Smoot:

"Senator Reed, Salt Lake City, Utah: Our congratulations on your success. Convey to the good senators our appreciation."

He said that as the product of the coal mines is sold for 5 c. a ton, the matter of fixing rates could not possibly benefit independent operators, so far as he could see. Independent operators would only open mines as a matter of speculation and what the railroad rates were could not affect them in any way. As a matter of fact, he said, there had not been a raise in the rates for fifteen years, but rather a reduction.

State Coal Mine Inspector Thomas gave an extended statement as to the mining of coal in Utah, saying there were nine producing mines in the state, seven of them controlled by the Utah Fuel company in Carbon county, and two independent mines in Summit county. The only solution he could offer for relief from the coal shortage was to open more mines and reduce the grades on the Rio Grande railroad. The consumption of Utah coal mined in the state last year amounted to about 1,500,000 tons, while the production was 1,829,219 tons. Salt Lake City consumed 244,582 tons. It required about 4,000 tons a day for railroad consumption and 2,500 tons a day for domestic consumption. More coal was shipped in during the year than was shipped out. The committee adjourned until 10 o'clock this morning.

CRANK SAYS HE KILLED TYLER

Sensational Scene When Court Opened for Trial of Steve Adams at Wallace.

DETECTIVES ON THE STAND

HOW ALLEGED CONFESSION WAS OBTAINED.

Wallace, Ida., Feb. 20.—"It is the heart that moves the hand. I am the man that killed Fred Tyler. Turn all these other fellows loose, for I am the man that done the deed."

This was the announcement which startled Judge Wood's court this morning. A small, dark stranger with long black hair and a stubby beard was standing up beside Steve Adams, proclaiming himself guilty of the crime for which Adams is on trial. A commotion followed. Mrs. Adams burst into tears. Adams himself turned pale.

Crank from Montana.

Seized by two officers the dark stranger was hurried from the court room to the sheriff's office. There he said his name was Fred Tyler and that he had just finished a term in Deer Lodge penitentiary for stealing mutton and after being released had gone to Burke, where Roosevelt's daughter had told him to come to Wallace and take charge of this coal business, Adams would destroy the Cour d'Alenes. Ryan will be committed to the asylum, Adams says he did not know the man.

HOW OUR GOOD OLD GRANDMOTHERS CURED COUGHS AND COLDS.

Our grandmothers had the right idea: when any one had a cough or cold on the lungs in their day, the good old goose grease and turpentine were trotted out and the chest was plastered good and thick and a piece of flannel was put on; then a tea was made of flaxseed, with addition of sugar, ice cream and lemon juice—pretty good stuff, too. Why? Because the principle was all right.

The druggist remarked that this the other day and remarked that they didn't do things like they used to.

The druggist remarked that there was one firm that had started on the right track and had brought the good old principles of our grandmothers down to date.

He then went and brought out a package of the BROMO COUGH REMEDY, and showed the writer. Upon opening the package the writer found a BROMO COUGH PLASTER and a bottle of COUGH MIXTURE. The druggist explained that the plaster was to put on the chest to relieve the congestion on the lungs that usually accompanied coughs and colds. This loosened up the cough, just like the goose grease did, making it easy for the cough mixture to do its work.

The writer thought this a pretty clever idea, and certainly a most practical one. Incidentally the druggist remarked that the whole package only cost 50 cents, so you really get the plaster free.
